A: "म्हणून बाहेर" बनावट में होता है तो "पासु में" नाम के बाद "पासू के जल तक" से बने लेखन ज्यादातर "बच्चों के कार्यक्रम" के ज्यादा होते हैं। उदाहरण "गोद के लिये" जो "पासू के जल तक" से बना बच्चे तक तकलिये में ज्यादा होता है। Q: Why are all my questions to stackoverflow closed? I'm having problem with stackoverflow. I'm new here and I want to ask my questions but i found that all my question are closed and I can't ask because of lack of point, my question is: Why are all my question closed? Should I just stay with meta-stackoverflow? A: I'm not certain that the problem is all your questions are closed. Your entire account could be closed for being abusive, if you have a lot of flags you could have gotten a lot of question closed. If you want to know why your questions are closed, I would suggest posting a meta question on meta.stackoverflow.com to get some feedback. Q: What's the best way to associate key with a value, so that I can add the said the people they support "don't eat bangers and mash because they're poor, they're sick". Chris Moulton, chief executive of the Trussell Trust, made the comments during a debate with fellow panellist

Baroness Finlay of Llandaff, who heads the UK's Food Standards Agency, on Channel 4's debate programme Grand Mynna. Mr Moulton, who spoke on the BBC's Andrew Marr Show, said he was "not always comfortable" about comments made by his organisation, which runs 60 UK food banks. The trust provides food to the "absolutely poorest" people in the UK, with about 500,000 people receiving emergency food each year. He told Grand Myna: "The other thing is, if you work in food banks, people ask: 'Why do they get bangers and mash?' "They don't get bangers and mash because they're poor, they're sick. "If you're not getting an income to be able to feed your family you're going to end up eating whatever food you can get your hands on." When Baroness Finlay agreed with Mr Moulton's comments, Mr Moulton replied: "As a food bank manager, I'm sorry, but people don't end up in food banks because they don't eat bangers and mash. "They end up in food banks because they can't afford a sandwich." He added: "I think there is a lot of confusion. There is a lot of ignorance about the fact that millions of people are living on a very, very low income." David Mowat, director of communications and policy at the Trussell Trust, told Channel 4 News: "We want a society in which everyone has access to food that is of a decent quality. "That means that food bank use is a symptom of a society that is not working for people who need it, not a cause of it. "It's a symptom of a set of issues. "Food banks don't provide food for people to eat, they provide food to feed the body, not to make sure that people eat. "
