Doc2swagger is a universal web service for generating a Swagger 2.0 specification from any website's documentation. It is a plugin to swagger.io, a service with the OpenAPI specification and automatically generates Swagger UI from the OpenAPI specification for documentation. Its goal is to help developers who work with RESTful APIs to provide a solid, up-to-date documentation. How does Doc2swagger work? Doc2swagger works by simply using the built-in formatter to convert the information it finds from the API documentation to JSON format, and then it uses the Swagger specification and exports the API documentation to Swagger format. It is compatible with the Swagger 2.0 specification. NOTE: This tool is in beta stage and is in need of further improvement. P.S.: You may ask for a refund at any time. ===== Why it is not listed on the API list: Doc2swagger is in beta stage and needs a bit of work to make it useful. testcafe is a testing tool, especially for web applications.
