== DUProfiler was designed with the following objectives: - To help you keep track of the uploaded and downloaded bandwidths for all your COM-ports in a way you have always wanted, like putting an additional column with the label Username and its bandwidths in the network tab of the DU Meter. - To display the bandwiths for all the users in the current usergroup in an easy to use interface. - To create a simple system to keep track of the connection bandwidths for all your PCs and Macs. - To be able to keep track of the bandwidths per user group. == .. figure:: .. figure:: DUProfiler features: ========================= DUProfiler comes with many features. These are: - Bandwidths of individual users or groups can be displayed per COM-port or computer. - All bandwiths can be displayed in an easy to use interface. - You can create up to 4 groups with any combination of users and COM-ports. - You can filter the bandwiths for a specific group or usergroup. - Bandwidths can be displayed as a percentage or as absolute values. - All users can be sorted by their bandwidths. - You can display the bandwiths on a graph. - Each bandwith can be clicked to open a new window with the bandwidths for a specific user, a group or both. - The DU Meter can be used to record the bandwidths of each group. DUProfiler does not perform any monitoring. It's the job of the DU Meter to gather the bandwiths of the installed devices. Version History: =========================== This is version 1.0 of DUProfiler. It has a lot of improvements since version 0.0. DUProfiler is based on freeminer for Windows. You can 1d6a3396d6
