Here are the reasons you should learn Photoshop, and why your Photoshop skills can take you anywhere in your career! Budget For a new designer, Photoshop can be quite expensive. However, you can use the creative cloud for free or a low price. With the creative cloud, you get a monthly subscription of $9.99 to access all Creative Cloud apps and Photoshop elements is free. Learning Learning Photoshop gives you the opportunity to practice, and learn the key concepts of image editing. You get to play around with different tools and techniques until you know how they work. This can save a lot of time, and you may find that the information you learn will help you in other fields as well. Protection Some of the photo editing features you use to crop, enhance, retouch, and otherwise alter your images, can be copied, stolen, or used illegally. Photoshop helps you to protect your intellectual property and keep it safe. Many companies have scanners, and a lot of them will use Photoshop as the main tool to edit their work, so it helps to be able to use the most powerful program for image manipulation. Artists Many artists use Photoshop to help them create their art. It offers features that other programs do not, so you can produce the best art possible. It is an art program, and the way you use it, your art will have a unique style to it. More reasons to learn If you are a graphic designer, you need to learn Photoshop. And if you need to create your own emoji, you need to know Photoshop too. You can create your own emojis and share them on Instagram, so it is important to know how to edit images. If you are a web designer, you want to make your website look its best, so you should be able to learn Photoshop, and if you are a professional photographer, you need to know about a lot of different functions in Photoshop. Then there are web designers who can use Photoshop for web editing and graphic designers who use Photoshop to create designs for print. You can use Photoshop to edit photographs, create logos, logos, vector graphics and many other uses. Another thing to note is that many schools offer Photoshop as a requirement, so it can be useful in order to get into a college. However, you do not have to be a photographer, graphic designer, or web designer to 05a79cecff

Dodge and Burn tools can add a subtle or dramatic effect to an image. Duplicate Image and Undo are the most basic tools in Photoshop. The Liquify filter can stretch or distort an image, making it look more like the original. The Mask tool allows you to select an area of an image and make the other parts transparent. The Rotate tool lets you turn images with pictures. The Turbine filter can give images a kind of abstract look. To apply a brush or brush effect, you can select a brush tool, click the section of an image that you want to select, choose a tool type in the Brush tool options and click. Or, you can simply drag the marquee over the section of an image you want to select and a brush effects will be applied. You can choose between Brush, Pen, or Type options for the brush effects. To select a new font in Photoshop, simply go to Window → Type and click inside the box with the font type or size you want to change in it. Photoshop will search for a font for you and add it to the Type tool palette. You can also select a font from the tools palette and then click in the design area. You can also select a paragraph or character font type from inside a text box. The format of this font is dependent on the text box type, as you can see in the Figure below: If you want to use a custom font in Photoshop, you can install it by right-clicking on the font in the Type tool palette and clicking Install. Then, Photoshop will add the font to the Type tool palette. You can also select a custom font by right-clicking in a text box and clicking Use a Custom Font and Enter the URL of your font (or the fonts directory). You will need to make sure that your fonts directory is publicly accessible.

Figure 1: Type tools To change the size of a brush, type into the Size tool's box and choose between 300, 400, or 600 points. The default size for most brushes is 100 points. Figure 2: Changing the brush size To change the size of the brush, click into the Size tool's box and make your choice. The size of most brushes is 100 points, but you can change the brush size to 300, 400, or 600 points. To change the size of a brush, click into the Size tool's box and make your choice. The size of most

Q: Django test doesn't work because of IntegrityError I'm beginning to use testing in Django 1.9 (trying to repeat the example from documentation for now), and I got a problem when creating a test instance and trying to store some data. I made this function (in ModelTestCase):

def setUp(self): self.a = A() # Test function
def test_something(self): self.assertTrue(self.a.field == "something")
Create object instance
object_instance = MyTestCase.objects.create(a=self.a) # Call function and check values
self.assertEqual("something", object_instance.field)

And it throws this error: ERRORS:

===== ... ValueError: Tried to create with same values as existing (%s) ... What am I doing wrong? P.S. The class is defined as:
class MyTestCase(TestCase):
def setUp(self): self.a = A() EDIT: The model A looks like:
class A(models.Model):
field = models.CharField(max_length=100)
The models.py looks like:
from django.db import models
class A(models.Model):
field = models.CharField(max_length=100)
A: All the examples in Django are using fixtures, so the error is telling you that you have been trying to use data that already exists. One way to test this is to try creating an object for your model with object_instance = self.obj.objects.create() Instead of object_instance = MyTestCase.objects.create(a=self.a) This should be object_instance = self.obj.objects.create() This will populate your test with data that already exists and should hopefully work. This error appears when trying to use fixture. (CNN) -- NBA legend Bill Russell died Friday morning, according to an ESPN television report. A statement from the family of the basketball star, who was a nine-time NBA champion, announced Russell's death. He was 75.
